H. S. WINS 1ST TOURNEY GAME IN OVERTIME

Will Play Palatine Tonight,
Lake View Takes on Libertyville

In one of the most exciting games of the season, and probably of the tournament, Antioch slipped it over Barrington in an overtime game last night, 22-24. The score stood 22-22, and one minute to go. Just before the run-out Fuchs threw the ball, making the basket, but as the officials claimed the first bullet had not gone off, the basket did not count, and a minute overtime followed. Barrington claimed the first basket, but Antioch followed when Brogan tossed one over. In the last minute, having blocked several Barrington attempts, the boys made a rush for the basket end, and Fuchs, with a successful long shot, won the game. The score:

Antioch	24	P
Fuchs (lf)	3	0
Brogan (c)	3	1
King (rf)	2	1
Kesman (rg)	0	2
Hughes (lf)	1	0
McDonnell (c)	1	0

The game was closely fought throughout. In the early part, although Antioch retained the lead, the boys missed many of the short shots. At one time during the second half, Barrington gained the lead in a surprise rally, with Thorpe, Williams and Orndorff going strong. Hoese and Bennett also scored.

Warren Withdraws.
Tonight, instead of playing the 3 o'clock game, as was scheduled, Antioch played a late at 7 o'clock, Warren having withdrawn from the tournament because of scarlet fever among the students. This gives Waukegan a bye till they play Elia on Friday evening.

Lake Villa and Waukegan Win.
Lake View, Chicago, defeated the Schurz school, also of Chicago, in a good defensive game last night, 27-17. Schurz made a fine struggle against their opponent's defense in the early part of the game, but were unable to hold the pace. Curcio, Wherry and Kowalski appear to be the star Lake View men. Libertyville and Lake View clash at 8 o'clock tonight.

It was rumored before the tournament that Waukegan was due for a trimming, but they seemed to acquire some of that elusive winning spirit, and trounced the Roosevelt of Chicago, 27-15, in spite of a 6' start.

Just before the half the game grew tense when Waukegan overtook and passed their opponents. Both teams played a fast game, with Waukegan displaying fine passwork and defense. Deerfield-Shields will play the Waukegan boys at 8 o'clock Friday.

The Lake View-Libertyville winner takes on the Antioch-Palatine victor at 2 o'clock Saturday, followed by a game between the Waukegan-Deerfield winner and the Waukegan-Elia winner.

"Abraham Lincoln" to Be Shown at Antioch

D. W. Griffith's Latest Production Will Be a Great Attraction Here

"Abraham Lincoln," the four star talking picture, as great or greater than "The Birth of a Nation," and produced by the same author, will be shown here Thursday and Friday, March 13 and 14, at the Antioch Theatre. The picture witnessed a showing of the "Third Alarm," a very fine picture of special interest to farmers.

There will be a special matinee for grade school children Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ANTIOCH FIREMEN FETE NEIGHBORING FLAME FIGHTERS

One hundred firemen from the volunteer departments at Fox Lake, Mundelein, and Silver Lake, Wis., were guests of the Antioch firemen here Monday night. At the Antioch Theatre the firemen witnessed a showing of the "Third Alarm," a very fine picture of special interest to farmers.

There will be a special matinee for grade school children Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Legion Will Honor Past Commanders at Meeting Tonight

The Antioch Post of the American Legion tonight will honor five past commanders at the first annual past commanders' night to be celebrated by the post at the Danish Hall. The chief speaker will be District Commander Charles Kapechull, of Deerfield, who will present past commander badges to Raymond Webb, Dr. George W. Jensen, Arthur M. Maplethorpe, Paul Chase and John L. Horn. The commanders served in the order named. The Antioch post was organized in 1925, with Raymond Webb as first commander.

Commander S. M. Wallace, who will be in charge of the celebration tonight, has announced that the post is now in position to assist ex-service men file applications for loans. Many such applications have already been filed, Wallace says.

MILLBURN FARMER DIES IN CHICAGO

Chris Van Patten, Resident of County 30 Years, Is Infection Victim

Christian L. Van Patten, well-known Lake county farmer who passed away late Sunday evening at the home of his sister in Chicago, was given a Masonic funeral by the Antioch lodge No. 127 A. F. and A. M., of which he was a member, at the Millburn cemetery yesterday.

He had been failing in health for several years, and a short time ago he and his wife moved to the more comfortable quarters of his sister, Mrs. Anna Oreson, 6112 Stony Island ave., Chicago. He grew worse, and Sunday evening became the victim of fatal blood poisoning which had set in. Funeral services were held in Chicago before the body was brought to Millburn.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Patten, of Albany, N. Y., where he was born April 9, 1855. He lived for several years in Iowa, and in 1895 married Miss Mary Schoop, at Manning, Ia. Six years later they moved to the farm southwest of Hickory Corners, where he has been engaged in farming for thirty years. He is survived by his widow, three brothers and four sisters. No children were born to his marriage. Mrs. Van Patten has not yet made definite arrangements for her future place of residence.

Says Now Is the Time For Smaller Towns to Seek New Industries

Springfield, Ill.—With business conditions causing industries to center attention on costs, A. R. Gwinn, manager of the Industrial development department of the Central Illinois Public Service Company, believes that now is the time for small cities to make their bids for new industries.

Many industries have found that they are not now located as advantageously as they should be, Mr. Gwinn comments in a recent survey in the territory served by his company.

"These industries will be good prospects when conditions change. They will not hunt out your community and establish a plant on their own accord, but, instead, well organized and intelligent activity on the town's part will be necessary to secure the industry," he says.

He credits the tendency of business to move from congested centers to small towns to higher class labor, less overhead, and cheaper living expenses for employees. Many other factors, such as an adequate supply of electricity and gas, are found to be equal.

Mr. Gwinn predicts that "those towns which keep constantly on the job will be the ones which will make the first and greatest progress when the turn for the better comes. Those which merely wait for conditions to improve will wonder why industries chose other locations."

Await Relatives of Drink Victim

The body of Fred Kotsman, 65, Lake Villa character, who was found dead in his tent Monday morning, still lies at Blum's undertaking parlors, awaiting the arrival of relatives from Michigan. He will be given a military funeral, as he was a Spanish-American war veteran.

Kotsman has lived in a tent on a vacant lot for the past six years, working frequently on various golf courses. He was in the habit of going on periodic drunken sprees, according to witnesses, the last of which caused his death, the coroner's verdict disclosed.

Dr. and Mrs. B. J. Corbin returned from their winter quarters in Florida Saturday.

MEN'S CLUB TO HOLD OPEN NIGHT FOR NEXT PROGRAM

The Men's Club will hold an open night for their dinner and program next Thursday evening in conjunction with the Women's Club, to which they invite anyone interested in hearing the two fine speakers, Dr. Yarrow and his assistant, Mrs. Morris, officers of the Illinois Vigilance Association of Chicago, with whom L. O. Bright, who has charge of the program, has made arrangements for interesting discussion.

These speakers were secured by the Women's Club to speak before the students at the high school last afternoon, and it is hoped that the opportunity of hearing them in the evening. The dinner will begin promptly at 8:30, to allow the program to commence at 9:00. The dinner will be 50 cents per plate, but any one unable to be present for that will be welcome to hear the program.

The dinner will be served by the girls of the high school home economics department.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Was Celebrated Recently

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGreal Wedded in Salt Lake City, Utah

Fifty years ago last Thursday, the twenty-sixth of February in the Valley House hotel in Salt Lake City, Utah, Miss Rebecca Phillips became the bride of Thomas McGreal. Smartly clad in a brown cashmere dress, with trimmings of silk, boucets and buttons, and actually a train, this girl began her matrimonial venture.

The interview was shown a picture, taken upon the wedding day. Really, neither seemed to have aged much in those fifty years. Mr. McGreal is just as chipper today, and much more sportily dressed than he was then. Sporty is about the only word that properly describes his youthful attitude and attitude.

"Yes, our married life has been very happy and free from friction," Mrs. McGreal laughed, upon being asked. And her husband broke in, "We agreed when we were first married that neither was going to be the boss, and that is so today."

"We have not had a hard life," Mrs. McGreal remarked happily. "We lived in Salt Lake City for a while, with all the conveniences of that time. Then we moved to Carey, Ida, where we lived for five years."

The interview, with mind picturing Indiana and pioneering days, was insistent upon hardships, but these were disclaimed. "We suffered no hardships," continued Mrs. McGreal. "My husband had a fine position with the Ontario river mills."

"Forty-five years ago we moved to Bristol township. There all our children were born on the farm, except Florence, our oldest daughter, who was born in Park City. Three years ago we moved into Antioch."

Mrs. McGreal was born in England twenty-two years ago, and came to Oregon, O., when a lass of 17. After two years, she moved with her family to Utah, where she met her husband. Mr. McGreal is a native of the Emerald Isle, having been born there eighty-one years ago, but when still a child, in November, 1855, he came to America.

GAY PIRATES ARE PERSUASIVE TICKET SELLERS

Dress Rehearsal Indicates a Spirited Show for Real Performance

The probability of a sold-out house is indicated by the early reports from the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades who have been selling tickets for their big dual production of the "Knave of Hearts" and "Treasure Island," set for Friday evening, March 6, at the high school auditorium.

Rehearsals, which have been under way for a month and were completed with a dress rehearsal Wednesday evening, have been eminently satisfactory, according to the director. Those who have been privileged to see them say the youthful thespians show indications of giving a rare treat by way of a performance.

The plays which are under the sponsorship of the grade school Parent-Teacher Association, under the general charge of President Mrs. P. L. Chinn, assisted by various committees, are being given to raise funds to pay for the school piano the association recently purchased. It is understood that a number of out of town people will be in the audience.

As the performance is a long one, the management has announced that the curtains will be raised at 8 o'clock sharp. They also suggest that those contemplating attendance secure their seats at once from one of the pupils handling them, as the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited, and there positively will be no tickets sold beyond capacity.

ANTIOCH'S NEW CHARACTER

By Leonard Fowler.

Long ago Antioch people have been compared to new residents. But now the town is to have a new character, different from any that ever came before.

This latest addition to our city which grows in fame and beauty year by year is a trade mark girl, "The Little Nurse," and she is brought here by King's Drug Store and she is to live in the columns of The Antioch News every week for one whole year.

A long while ago Charles A. Dana's newspaper had an editorial in which a little girl was assured that "Santa Claus is real."

These trade mark people are just as real as any that ever lived. The tailor displaying a suit pattern over his knee, the knight in armor on the Hart Schaffner & Marx horse, the bob cabin of the maple syrup ads, the dog listening to "His Master's Voice" and the little "Dutch Girl" chasing dirt, are all people who live in a world and work for their employers just like the rest of us.

King's Drug Store will introduce "The Little Nurse" to the readers of the News and before long she, too, will be "as real as Santa Claus" in hundreds and hundreds of families. She will take the news of the drug store into many, many homes, to be sure, but she will also take a smile, she will take some of the imagery of existence and she will do her bit to lighten life's drab monotony.

More power to her! May she live long and prosper!

Enthusiasm Greatest Business Asset, Whitmore Tells Dealers

Enthusiasm is the greatest business asset in the world, G. A. Whitmore told automobile dealers of southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois who met at Burlington Friday night. It was the annual get-together and dinner of dealers throughout the district. The problems of the automobile business were discussed.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Whitmore, Antioch dealer who was one of the speakers, declared that enthusiasm beats money, power and influence.

"Single-handed, the enthusiast convinces and dominates where a small army of workers scarcely raise a tremor of interest," Mr. Whitmore said. "Enthusiasm is faith in action; and faith and initiative rightly combined remove mountains, barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous. Set the germ of enthusiasm afloat in your business; carry it in your attitude and manner; it spreads like a contagion and influences every fibre of industry. It begets and inspires effects you did not dream of; it means life—real and virile; it means spontaneous head-rock results—the vital things that pay dividends to all humankind."

"Let us cultivate enthusiasm, optimism, and confidence in our everyday lives—in ourselves."

COUNCIL CHAMBER IS RE-DECORATED—GIFT OF AMERICAN LEGION

When village board members gathered at the village hall Tuesday evening for the March meeting they found a newly decorated council chamber, a gift to the village by the Antioch American Legion post.

William Halwas did the work, and a very fine job he did of it, too, according to board members who gave a vote of thanks to the Legion and to Mr. Halwas.

The room is used as a meeting place for the Legion and also for the fireman.

"The room never looked better," was the comment of Mayor George B. Bartlett.

Village Asks for Bids On Street Widening

For the second time within a year the street and alley committee of the board of trustees of Antioch ask for sealed bids for widening Main street at the intersection of Orchard street. Specifications are on file at the office of H. P. Lowry, chairman of the street and alley committee. Bids are to be in not later than 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, March 21, the committee announced, and each bid is to be accompanied by a certified check for 5 per cent of the bid.

This work should be completed this year, board members say, and if no bids are received this time the street and alley committee will take charge of the work.

Will Improve Drainage.
Among the other important matters brought to the attention of the board at the meeting Tuesday night was the project for improving the drainage on Quality street. It has been almost impossible to keep the street surface in good condition, due to faulty drainage, and the street and alley committee was instructed to take immediate steps to remedy the condition.

Miss Ruth Williams entertained Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Roseburg, of Chicago, over the week-end.

MILK ASSOCIATION TO HOLD GREATEST MEETING TUESDAY

Noted Speakers and Entertainers to Be Heard by 18,000 Farmers

DAIRY INVESTMENT
IS $360,000,000

With the state of Illinois represented through Stewart Plerson, director of agriculture, the annual meeting of the Pure Milk Association at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, March 10, looms as the largest and most important in the history of the organization.

W. C. McQueen, association president, announced that Mr. Plerson would bring an important message for the 18,000 farmer members concerning new developments in milk production, especially as they involve co-operative marketing. Governor Louis L. Emmerson had expected to attend but was forced to abandon the plan because of urgent state business.

Of extraordinary interest, too, Mr. McQueen said—especially in view of current business trends—is the scheduled address of Dr. Arthur E. Holt, professor of social ethics at University of Chicago, on "The Farmer in a City Controlled World."

Nor will entertainment be neglected at the forthcoming meeting. During the noon session, a 4-piece orchestra will furnish music after which Fred Lewis, famous monologist, will give humorous sketches.

Probably no phase of the program is expected to hold the interest of the delegates more, however, than the report of Don N. Geyer, secretary and general manager, who has become recognized by the federal farm board as an authority on co-operative marketing. He has recently presided at important meetings at several major midwestern and southern universities and is a director in the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, of which the Pure Milk Association is the second largest member. It is Mr. Geyer who has the actual direction of the association's activities, which have given Chicago and its suburbs a milk supply that health authorities term the purest in the country.

Policies for the forthcoming year will be taken up at the meeting, drawing in as many farmers from a radius of 70 miles. The producer-members, extend from Ft. Wayne, Ind., on the east, to Madison, Wis., on the west, with a total cow population of 250,000 and an investment of $360,000,000.

Albert Herman Appointed Ass't 4-H Club Leader

Albert Herman, of Antioch, has been appointed by the University of Illinois for 4-H club work in Lake county, according to announcement received from Dean Mumford of the college of agriculture, Urbana, by W. J. Swayer, president of the Lake county Farm Bureau.

Mr. Herman is to spend half of his time in 4-H club work in Lake county, as was done last year.

A series of meetings is being planned for next week and the week following, at which motion pictures will be shown and 4-H club work outlined for this coming year. In order to have a really good club year, it is well to get started early with the projects.

All 4-H club work in the United States is conducted under the county agent, or home demonstration agent, who in Illinois are called farm and home advisors. Any other junior club conducted and not under the supervision of a farm or home advisor is not a 4-H club.

The county bankers and many organizations are backing 4-H club work as never before. It is predicted that this will be the best 4-H club year in history.

Town Team To Enter a Tournament at Waukegan

The Antioch town team will enter the basketball tournament at Waukegan, which is to be held at the high school gymnasium from March 4 to 14, of next week. All the industrial towns of Waukegan are competing, and several others, including the Tremont Rangers, and the Grapeland A. C. Antioch has not received announcement of their first opponent, as yet.

The West Side Waukegan A. C. trounced the town team Monday evening, 52-30.

Tony Dibble was the victim of a serious stroke Monday noon at his home. His condition is not much improved, and he is unable to be moved from the house.

CHILDREN FIRST

In the face of danger or disaster on a sinking ship we would strike down anyone who attempted to save himself at the expense of a child. Children come first not only on sinking ships but in our hearts, our homes, our schools, and our churches. They are first. The race can save itself—can lift itself higher—only as children are lifted up. In this unique period of depression with its extreme want on the one side and its extreme fortunes on the other, many schools are carried down to disaster—their doors closed—their funds cut off. Boards of education and other public officials are often hard pressed financially but they cannot afford to give up the idea of children first.

To do justice by the child it is necessary to do justice by the child's teacher. Teachers have never had full justice. Their salaries have always been low when compared with their training and their heavy responsibilities. They have never been able to maintain the standard of living which the character of their work calls for. We have never given to our American rural communities the leadership of a stable, well-paid, well-trained teaching profession.

To reduce teachers' salaries now would be to weaken our first and last line of defense and to cripple the very institution—the common school—to which we must look for the training in skill and in character to enable us to rise above present conditions. Teachers know this but they do not always make it plain to other citizens of the community. This is the time when the schools need to keep close to the homes; when every teacher needs to realize that he must interpret his service in terms of its human significance and values if he is to save the schools and protect the rights of the children. Let's keep the children first.

BEWARE OF DRASTIC MEASURES

All manner of schemes are being proposed in our states to rid the highways of reckless drivers, reduce automobile accidents and provide financial compensation for innocent victims. These problems must be solved, according to the Baltimore Sun, "through adoption of moderate measures. Drastic enactments... do not work out satisfactorily." There is agreement that a way should be found to compensate victims of reckless automobilists, but there is widespread diversity of opinion how best to do it. Compulsory insurance has been tried and found unworkable. In consequence, attention is being directed in many states to the possibility of meeting the situation gradually by strengthening laws aimed at motorists who are responsible for accidents.

The law to revoke licenses of financially irresponsible and reckless drivers is receiving much support as is the law requiring rigid examinations of all motorists. This last is believed to be of special value in promoting safety. During the past two years out of each 100,000 population, twenty-five have been killed and 815 injured by automobiles, and in most states the accident rate is rising. At the same time estimates show that states now requiring strict drivers' examinations have reduced their death rates 29 per cent, which means that this single precaution results in saving the lives of seven out of each 100,000 of our people.

In many states the automobile accident problem is being approached from the right angle—that of impartial investigation. Officials should get the facts and then act. The reckless and incompetent must be outlawed from the highways.

TIMELY TOPICS

BY ANTIOCH PEOPLE

By Philip T. Bohl MULTIPLICATION

Sometime ago we began a discussion of the arithmetical operations as they may be applied to life. The first two basic operations, addition and subtraction, have been discussed. A familiar couplet, "His strength was as the strength of ten because his heart was pure," suggests that the operation of multiplication can be applied to our experience—in other words, the purity of the heart multiplies the strength ten times.

There are certain things which seem to multiply our strength; for instance, fear or fright. It is not infrequently that we hear of a man, unaided, quelling a mob or a crowd, or a friend, turning over a car under which was pinned his wife or child or a friend. Under "ordinary circumstances" he could not do it. So there are other factors of life which multiply our strength and endurance. Just what the source of this additional strength is, perhaps even the psychologist cannot explain.

Contentment, or ability to find pleasure in work, is another multiplying force. The man who is contented in his work, who finds pleasure in it, is not watching the clock and ready to run the moment the whistle blows. The close of the day finds him much less fatigued than would be the case if he were discontented and unhappy. Most of us have had the opportunity to choose our life's work, and if we do not fit into it no one else is to blame. Furthermore, it is within the power of everyone to make the best of situations which may not be entirely desirable, and in making the best of these we are multiplying our strength, endurance and happiness.

Most of us know the meaning of discouragement. Where is the person who has not at some time in his life felt entirely down and out, and thought, "What's the use, anyhow?" Who of us has not felt the renewal of energy and encouragement coming to him through an encouraging word from some friend? This friend who gave the friendly word of encouragement was doubtless unwary, of the multiplying energy which was received from him, and, strange to say, he lost no strength in the process. Most of us are stingy with kindness of friendliness and words of kindness and appreciation which might be given at no expense to us and to the great benefit of those about us. If these things were carried no farther than our home lives, much of the discouragement of the world would be removed.

Just as we may receive encouragement and strength from a friend, we may derive still greater benefits from friendship with the master, Jesus Christ. There are certain qualities which the Christian religion gives us, no greater source of happiness than Christian living. Another is good will; the Christian is always on speaking terms with everyone, even his enemies. He possesses a spirit of good will toward all men. Another, is courage to face all the tests of life. Other qualities are sincerity, purity, sympathy, vision, God-consciousness, and loyalty. Service is another quality which Christianity gives one; not necessarily to lead, but to serve—the men and women whom the world has remembered and honored in all generations are those who founded their greatness on service. Is it any wonder that the master said, "He came to give us life, and life more abundantly." That person is poor indeed! that has not allowed the true riches of his life to be multiplied by the friendship of the Master. Among them is joyousness—there is Well, from the way it came in, March certainly ought to go out like a lion!

Retelling, farming, and nearly all other businesses are in the midst of a "re-adjustment." On the level, we're going ahead as we have never progressed before.

An Antioch father lands us this one: "It's a good idea to kiss the children good night. If you don't mind waiting up for them."

WARREN TAKES ANTIOCH'S LAST CONFERENCE GAME

Conference Championship Split Between Arlington, Palatine and Warren

A common expression used in summing up into a brief description the points of any athletic contest is, "It was a hard-fought game."

The Antioch team was a credit to the school, and the second team deserves mention for their spirit. Although the boys lost, 14-10, the game was interesting, unusually so for a second team game. During the first quarter, a mere free throw was all either team could muster, but at the half, Warren led, 9-7. The third half was well-played ending in a 10-10 tie, but in the fourth quarter Warren forged ahead with two baskets. Stephens and Munsell, outstanding lightweight players, will return next year.

At the end of the quarter of the first team game, Antioch trailed closely upon their opponent's heels, 8-7. In the second half McCormick was the sole scorer, and Warren obtained a lead and kept it. At no time, however, was Antioch's cause hopeless. King, Brogan, Fuchs, McCormick and Smith were chalked up with several baskets each.

The weekly contests held in the fifth grade room are very successful. Last week the children vied for high grades in spelling, and the winners were Florence Hackett, Charles Miller, Wendell Nelson, Bernice Sherman and Cella Abelo.

History was more thoroughly studied than any other subject the week before. Robert Chiao, George Hawkins, Florence Hackett, Vileta Baethke and Roy Monaster prying particularly apt.

Sue Government for Many Millions

What is believed to be the largest suit filed against the federal government since the celebrated Alabama and French spoliation claims, amounting to $98,707,000, filed by the Blackfeet and several other Indian tribes, is now being heard by the United States Court of Claims at Washington. The photograph shows the members of the Blackfeet tribal council; left to right: Joe Brown, president of the council; Robert J. ## HOME BUREAU MEMBERSHIP IS NOW INCREASING

County Farmers to Take Samples of Soil to Be Tested

Mrs. Kathryn Van Aken, Bureau state leader in Home Bureau work, met with the group of women who are working for the organization of a Home Bureau in Lake county, last Friday afternoon, at Grayslake.

Since this organization meeting, many membership applications are coming in to the Farm Bureau office, and 150 out of the required 400 are now in the office.

Several communities have not been touched, while others that have had the opportunity are signing up very fast. To date, Warren township has thirty-six members, and Avon twenty-seven.

The women left the meeting last Friday determined to put over this Home Bureau organization during the early part of March, and according to reports coming in to the Farm Bureau office many of them are working hard. It is hoped to have the organization completed at an early date so that Girls' 4-H club work can make as rapid strides as boys' work is making.

Many of the organized counties in the state are making special effort and putting on special projects whereby they may learn how to maintain the same standard of living with decreased income.

The Home Bureau renders untold services to home-makers and assists

Let an ELECTRIC BROODER mother your chicks...

BABY CHICKS that are mothered by an electric brooder grow into healthier, heavier chickens. The brooder takes them two days after hatching and keeps them warm and active under its hood until they are old enough to take care of themselves.

Almost your only responsibility is to see that the chicks are fed. The electric heater in the brooder automatically maintains a constant, healthful temperature. Insulation holds practically all the heat under the hood. Plenty of fresh air is provided by an adjustable ventilator—a condition which is practically impossible when other heating methods are used.

The small cost of operating an electric brooder is more than offset by the better chickens it produces. The mortality rate is cut down materially and the chickens mature faster.

Write or phone your nearest Public Service Store and we'll be glad to send you one of our new designed farm electrification to tell you all about electric brooders. You won't be obligating yourself in any way.

Interest Shown in Soil Testing.

Much interest has been shown in the soil testing school which is to be held at the Farm Bureau office, Grayslake, Friday, March 6. Farmers from all parts of the county are taking samples of their soil and will bring them in to the Farm Bureau office to be tested for limestone and phosphate requirements, which are the two most important factors in the soils of Lake county.

Professor C. M. Linsley, of the University of Illinois, emphasized the value of limestone to aid the growth of legumes, especially sweet clover, as a soil builder, and phosphate with the use of these three elements to maintain the fertility of normal soil. Peat and alkali soils need the addition of peatish or horse-manure.

John D. Tells Padre a Good Story

Judging from the expression on the face of Rev. A. T. Brooks of Boston, Mass., it must have been a good one that John D. Rockefeller had just related to him on the grounds of his winter home at Ormond Beach, Fla., where the minister was his guest.

The subjects under discussion are: State highways, parks and forest preserves, and river restoration. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Jensen and family have moved from the Lux house on Lake street to the John Peterson house on Bishop street. The Peterson family has moved to Kansasville. A. E. Warden is recovering from the effects of a broken wrist and bruises sustained when he slipped and fell down the basement stairs in the bakery Sunday. Ambrose Runyard, of Rock Lake, who has many friends and relatives in Antioch, is critically ill. Mrs. Charles Hostetter left Friday evening for Coal City, Ind., where she will visit Mr. and Mrs. Tipton Hostetter. Mrs. Ada Guest and son, Russell, of Los Angeles, Calif., are visiting Mrs. Guest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Van Duzer and other friends and relatives. They plan to stay here until September, when Russell will attend school at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Canada, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Medora Webb and other Antioch friends for the past several days. J. C. James is attending a meeting called by the Chicago Regional Planning Association, which is being held today at the Palmer House, Chicago.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 1.

The Golden Text was, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; behold, thy King cometh unto thee; he is just, and having salvation" (Zechariah 9:9).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth" (Isaiah 52:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "He, who would reach the source and the divine remedy for every ill, must not try to climb the hill of Science by some other road. We must forsake the foundation of material systems, however time-honored, if we would gain the Christ as our only Saviour" (p. 326).

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and all passed. If A opened the five of clubs, how can Z score a small slam against any defense?

CONTRACT-BIDDING:

Z one no trump; A pass. Y three spades; B pass. Z should now bid three no trumps. A should pass and Y, with a very strong hand, should bid six no trumps. How can it be made?

AUCTION-BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart. A passed. Y bid two diamonds and B bid two spades. A opened the king of spades, which held the trick. He continued with the seven of spades. B won this trick with the ace and the problem is to pick out B's correct lead at the third trick and the reasons for it. This is an interesting hand, so try to figure out what B should do and why.

CONTRACT-BIDDING:

Z, as dealer, should bid one heart. A should pass. Y should bid two diamonds and B should bid two spades. Z should bid three hearts. A should pass and Y should bid four hearts. B should pass, for a double would locate the heart strength. The play is the same as at Auction.

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win five of the eight tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the six of spades, which A B can win, either (a) in A's hand with the nine of spades, or (b) in B's hand with queen of spades.

(a) Suppose A wins the first trick with the nine of spades. A's best play is the six of hearts, which Y wins. The latter should now play the queen of diamonds, on which Z should discard the eight of spades and A the seven of hearts. At trick four, Y should lead the ten of clubs and A should refuse to win the trick. At trick five, Y should play the jack of clubs and A should again refuse to win the trick. At trick six, Y should lead his last club and A is forced to win the trick. Y Z must now win a heart trick and thus score five of the eight tricks.

If at trick two A had led the queen of hearts and followed with the six, Z should win the trick and lead the five of clubs. If A plays the ace, Y must play the ten and again Y Z must win five of the eight tricks.

If at trick two A leads the queen of hearts and follows with the ace of clubs, Y should again play the ten of clubs and the result is the same.

If A plays the seven of clubs at trick two, Y should win the trick with the ten of clubs, lead the queen of diamonds and follow with the ten of hearts. Whether A wins this trick or not, Y Z must make five tricks.

(b) Suppose at trick one B decides to win the trick with the queen of spades, then his best lead is the four of hearts. If Y is allowed to win this trick, he should lead the queen of diamonds and Z should again discard the eight of spades. From now on the play is similar to the first solution and Y Z must again win five of the eight tricks.

Drive a Twin-Ignition NASH

—It's a new experience!

ONE of the chief reasons for the flashing acceleration and smooth speed and power of Nash Eight-80 and Eight-90 models is aircraft-type Twin-Ignition. In each cylinder, two spark plugs placed opposite each other, fire at precisely the same instant. The highly compressed gas ignites at two points. It is burned more quickly, efficiently. The result:—A more powerful explosion—instant responsiveness—noticeable gasoline economy.—The moment you step on the accelerator, you will realize the important difference Twin-Ignition makes. Let's go for a ride together—soon.

When one has spent a week from home, upon return she is seized with a cleaning fever, and a general upset and rearrangement of furniture ensues. She just hadn't noticed how colorless and faded her pillow coverings had become; how worn her curtains appeared; how really disgraceful that corner table looked, all littered; or that those knick-knacks on the shelf had a better-sketched appearance.

So she sets to work—buys a can of paint, varnish, purchases new coverings, or a new lamp shade, and transforms the room.

Clever women go through the same transformation with their personal appearance. When one sees just the members of their family, business associates, or a few relatives. There is nothing like meeting a class stranger, who gives her the once-over and up-and-down for making her squirm, and wonder why she had never noticed before that those good stockings simply never could harmonize with her dress. She has an uneasy feeling that other things are wrong, too, so the minute she reaches home, she rushes to a mirror, and with the image of the smartly dressed stranger in her mind, surveys herself with critical eye. First, she is struck with the lack of unity and distinction in her appearance, so she delves in quest of the causes. She should have cleaned off the blouse—dirty, plain dirt, is visible about the neck; and that neck isn't the same color as her face—it hadn't been creamed and powdered; and then her face looked all right from the front with her hair combed that way, but from a profile view it was hideous; and really, her ankles appeared much neater in a snugger, higher pump; and so on, and on.

The family may strenuously object if she introduces a radical change in hairdress, or plasters on a bright rouge found to be more becoming than that conservative shade, but if she insists upon not being herself for once, she may, in the end, and her real self.

And then wouldn't the family set up a howl if she went back to her former dowdiness!

"JUST THE TICKET"

Aren't they cute—the little Dutch couple, the girl so plumply adorned, and the lad with his high hat? And they're no trick at all to make—just a few bits of cloth applied on with cross-stitch, and a simple design embroidered in outline and cross stitch.

If you want a new bridge table cover for the St. Patrick's party, this pattern could be worked out in dark green applique on a light green or ivory background. An Easter combination of yellow and green in the red of a luncheon cloth, with cross stitch running all around the border.

"Dainty"

The fragrance of Shari Perfume achieved by a wonderful mingling of Rose, Hyacinth, Jasmine and Lily with rare and costly oriental flowers is the essence of daintiness. The silk covering of the container as well as the container itself is best described as dainty.

By inquiring among your friends, you will find that the daintiest women you know value Shari Perfume highly. Why don't you test this famous perfume yourself now?

Tasty Salads in Winter

Fresh Vegetables Not Needed In These Cold-
Weather Foods

SALADS, because of their great and growing popularity, are now all-the-year-round favorites. Instead of summer-time delicacies, in the cold-weather months, we need those useful appetite-provokers quite as much as in summer. And although fresh vegetables and fruits are not generally available in cold weather, we find a surprising number of delicious things to take their places. One winter-time favorite is:

Tuna Fish Salad

1 pint bottled water; 1 package instant gelatin; 1 cup celery, finely chopped; 1 pint finely chopped green pepper; 1 pint finely chopped onion; 1 pint finely chopped tomato; 1 pint finely chopped carrot; 1 pint finely chopped radish; 1 pint finely chopped cauliflower; 1 pint finely chopped cabbage; 1 pint finely chopped lettuce; 1 pint finely chopped spinach; 1 pint finely chopped parsley; 1 pint finely chopped dill; 1 pint finely chopped chives; 1 pint finely chopped basil; 1 pint finely chopped oregano; 1 pint finely chopped thyme; 1 pint finely chopped rosemary; 1 pint finely chopped sage; 1 pint finely chopped marjoram; 1 pint finely chopped tarragon; 1 pint finely chopped fennel; 1 pint finely chopped anise; 1 pint finely chopped dill seed; 1 pint finely chopped caraway seed; 1 pint finely chopped coriander seed; 1 pint finely chopped cumin seed; 1 pint finely chopped mustard seed; 1 pint finely chopped poppy seed; 1 pint finely chopped sesame seed; 1 pint finely chopped flax seed; 1 pint finely chopped sunflower seed; 1 pint finely chopped pumpkin seed; 1 pint finely chopped hemp seed; 1 pint finely chopped chia seed; 1 pint finely chopped flax seed; 1 pint finely chopped sunflower seed; 1 pint finely chopped pumpkin seed; 1 pint finely chopped hemp seed; 1 pint finely chopped chia seed.

1. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Pour this layer into loaf pan. Chill until firm, combine celery, pimiento, green pepper, onion, tomato, carrot, and horseradish. Place 1/2 of vegetables in mold. Cover with gelatin. Chill until firm. Add tuna fish and another layer of gelatin. Chill again until firm. Add remaining vegetables and gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold, serve in 1/2 inch slices on crisp cabbage leaves. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 8.

Another popular cold-weather dish is:

Mediterranean Salad

1 grapefruit, free from membrane and cut in sections; 1 orange, free from membrane and cut in sections; 1/2 pint maraschino cherries, halved; 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

Arrange grapefruit and orange sections and cherries on crisp cabbage leaves. Sprinkle with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

would be particularly appropriate for next month.

If this were used on a child's pillow, the Dutchness might be emphasized by using red and yellow applique against a tan field. Sister might like the effect of an old-fashioned print applied on a solid color, with a ruff of the print running all around. Lavender and green or orange and red make a delicate combination for a handkerchief holder.

A wall hanging in this design on linen or felt is clever and quickly catches the eye. Rose and forest green, or two shades of blue outlined in black, appear nicely on a wall.

General Hints on Winter Salads

Choose a combination of winter fruits or vegetables that will be colorful and appetizing. For example, combine apples with grapes and carrots, or garish apple salad with pimiento.

Meat and fish salads are excellent in winter, because these foods combine so well with celery, apple and other plentiful foods. When lettuce and watercress, such as lettuce, are hard to obtain, use the tender inside leaves of cabbage instead.

Pickles served with salads in winter time are particularly appetizing. When using canned tomatoes, drain thoroughly before combining with dressing or sauce.

Garlic for winter salads are: Pimiento or green pepper rings, slices of stuffed olives, slices of red apples, with skins on; cucumber or other bright-colored vegetables; maraschino cherries, whole or in sections; shredded coconut; lemon slices sprinkled with chopped parsley.

BONNETS IN SPRING

With Easter occurring just one month from today, it behooves us to wonder what new notions style will manage to infiltrate into the Easter attire. Even though many are not gifted with check books to be used whenever the mood appears, there is one article that is necessary to even the humblest parade—an Easter bonnet. Spring and picture hats are inseparable. Here is shown one of the new larger brims, black straw, edged with apple green, and banded with sprigs of flowers and leaves. Simple—but alluring. Small brimmed hats are being worn this season, and designers of all-things hats are using their cleverness, craftsmanship, and ingenuity to hold their proteges in favor.

WHICH SPOON GOES
NEXT TO THE KNIFE?

No, the Dish Won't Elope
With the Spoon; He
Shan't Touch Him

Company is expected for Sunday dinner. Daughters are told to set the table. Presently, as is frequently the case, she comes into the kitchen with the query, "Do the bread and butter plates go at the head of the plate, to the right, or where?"

The dinner is to be an informal one, so you answer that they are placed to the left, above the forks.

Rules galore govern the setting of a table and the service. Most of them are sensible rules, but some few have been invented for use by the wealthy classes, and are not practical or even possible for many hostesses. Knowledge of them all, in their places, is necessary, but today we will discuss only those points which the average Antioch or Lake Villa hostess would need.

Cocktails or soup entrees are not commonly served. Meat, potatoes, a vegetable, a scalloped dish, salad, rolls, pickles, dessert, and coffee is the basis of the meal, with choice in and meat, vegetable, and scalloped dishes, pickles and dessert.

A plate dinner is one of the simplest methods of serving the main course. The meat, potatoes, gravy, scalloped dish, and vegetable, if it be one that is not prepared in milk, may be piled on the plates in the kitchen. The salad, when coffee is served with the main course, is placed on the left of the plate; otherwise to the right.

When the guests are seated they should find the napkin to the left of the fork, the glass of water at the tip of the knife, spoons—in fact, all the silverware—arranged in order of use, bread and butter plate with a butter spreader and pat of butter at the head of the fork, salad to the left.

If a plate dinner is not served, the host either fills the plates and passes them down the line, the first to the right, etc.; or he passes the food to the one on his right, who serves him, and so passes the food on.

After the first course is finished, everything is removed except the coffee cups and spoons. Water glasses are refilled and hot coffee poured in the cups.

The dessert, which may be pie a la mode, cake and an ice, or fruit, or a pudding, is then brought in. The hostess who does not have a maid will serve the person on her right first, and then around the table.

This brief and somewhat general sketch will prove a guide for the correct placing of silverware and china. Further details on table appearance and service will follow in subsequent articles.

Hebrew Money

The monetary system of the Hebrews was based upon the Babylonian system of weights. The ratio of the value of gold to silver was 1:13:13 and prevailed over all western Asia.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Toppo leaves home to follow his canary. After many adventures, he escapes from his enemies, the Pillows. His friends, Mr. Frog and Roy, the dewdrop, go to another land to arrange for the Cushions to fight the Pillows. Thus they hope to rescue their Cloud-Queen, whose land is invaded by the Pillows. Mr. Frog returns, and he and Toppo escape the Pillows and enter the secret room. Continue.

The Pillows soldiers shouted and banged on the door, while Toppo and Mr. Frog lay exhausted on the floor. After repeated attempts to break into the room, the Pillows, muttering angrily, betook themselves away. When the sound of their departing had ceased, Toppo raised himself, and looked about him.

"Oh, look!" he cried. "Look, there is the pool. And see all the flowers and birds and green grass."

"I see them." But in spite of his calmness, his eyes sparkled. Here he was near some water and mossy ground again.

"I wonder if we can read the secrets of the pool," exclaimed Toppo. He ran to the pool, and gazed down into its deep waters, but could see nothing. In his disappointment he cried, "I thought we could find out what our enemies are doing, like the Queen did."

"Even if we could, what good would it do us? Listen! There are some soldiers returning to watch that we do not escape from this room. You see?" Mr. Frog pointed out. "We can't warn the Queen."

"No, I suppose not," answered the little boy. Then he brightened. "If all the Pillows have to go to war, then maybe we can rescue our Queen."

"Yes, we will have to wait," Mr. Frog told him. "But it may not be for long."

"Where have you left Toy, and what did you do in the Land of the Cushions?" Toppo asked then, remembering his little friend.

"What difference does it make to you?" Mr. Frog demanded. "You did not stay in your hiding place, did you?"

"I did!" Toppo denied boldly. He

LEGAL AUTO KNOTS

Conducted by the legal department
AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF ILLINOIS

This column is at the disposal of our readers who may be confronted with knotty legal problems pertaining to the use and operation of their automobile. Write your questions to "Ask Me" Editor, care of this paper and they will be answered in a forthcoming issue. Enclose a stamped envelope for an immediate reply.

Last year I had a Coupe. This year I converted it into a light box delivery vehicle. Must I now get a truck license?—V.B.

ANS.: Yes.

"A" buys a car on a conditional sale contract. Lator he defaults on payment. The finance company then pulled the car and sold it, but on the sale they did not get the whole amount due them. Now they are attempting to collect the balance from "A." Have they a legal claim against "A" having already pulled his car?—C.O.E.

ANS.: Yes. The purchaser is personally liable on the conditional sale contract and if the finance company does not get the amount they are entitled to by the sale of the auto, then they can sue "A" for the balance.

"A" owns a car. The car is later stolen from him and the driver has an accident with a car driven by "B." "B" is now trying to collect from "A" for his damage claiming that "A" was responsible because his car was in the accident. Is this right?—A.L.B.

ANS.: No. The owner of the car is not liable, there being no agency relation between the driver and the owner, as the car was stolen from the owner and was being driven without his consent, express or implied.

I recently moved to Chicago from California. I intend to reside here about six months. I had already purchased a California license when I made up my mind to move. Do I have to purchase an Illinois license now or is my California license sufficient?—M.E.N.

ANS.: You must purchase an Illinois license. The license issued by various states only cover the car when in the state where it was issued. Some states allow the foreign license to be used for a certain period, usually about 60 days.

What is the law with reference to the use of sirens on motor cars?—L.D.

ANS.: Sirens or gongs exceeding six inches in diameter are prohibited by the Chicago Municipal Code.

Is there any law against jaywalking?—Mrs. B.C.

ANS.: Yes. The Chicago Municipal Code provides that at no place shall a pedestrian cross any roadway other than by the most direct route to the opposite curbing, and when crossing at any place other than a crosswalk shall yield the right of way to all vehicles upon the roadway.

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

The members of the club were grieved to learn of the death of Frank Fenderson, husband of Emma M. Fenderson and father of Mrs. Paul Volk.

Mrs. Jack Hodge and the late George Fenderson. It was quite a coincidence that on the same day of Mr. Fenderson's funeral and from the same chapel, the funeral of another member of our club was held. George W. Meyer, late of 629 Addison street, passed away on Tuesday, February 9, from the effects of peritonitis, following an operation the previous day. Mrs. Meyer accompanied the remains to Springfield, Ill., for burial, and immediately afterward was taken so ill that she had to go to a hospital there. It may be some time before she is able to return to Chicago.

Charles W. Lullin left this week for an extended stay in New York, as is his usual mid-winter custom.

The unusual weather for this season of the year has lured many people to their summer haunts on these bright Sundays, and many have indulged in a little golf. Our spring be far away?

Large Newspaper Collection
What is said to be the largest collection of newspapers in the world has been opened to the public in a newspaper museum at Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany. Among its collection of 150,000 newspapers are curiosities from all over the world, including an Eskimo paper from the middle of last century.

Gigantic Structure
Herodotus estimated that 100,000 men were engaged for 20 years in building the Great pyramid.

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it to you.

COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Wisconsin. Ten years were spent in the West, during which time he married, and then he and his family returned to Wisconsin.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McGreal are in fine health, and are possessed of a cheerful optimism. Neither are hard of hearing and their vision is clear.

Mrs. McGreal can turn out as good a cake today as when there were more mouths to feed. Her simple hospitality and joy in living as she served the writer, who is now treated with pardonable pride, with a piece of her golden anniversary cake, was good to see.

A family party of the children and their families was held at the house Thursday. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGreal, Jr. and family, of Waukegan; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haun, of Kenosha; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reinke, John and Arthur McGreal.

Two of the children, who live in Idaho, were unable to be present, and eight of the twelve grandchildren were absent.

Thus happily did this couple enjoy a momentous milestone of their married life.

MY HUSBAND, TOO, IS PLAIN SPOKEN.

WHAT HE CALLS A COLLAR BUTTON WHICH HAS ROLLED UNDER THE BED.

WITH POLAR BEARS

Well, youngsters, here's a yarn that I'll bet will make you grin, and maybe giggle a little before I've finished.

Years ago, while I was crulain' on a sealing-schooner in th' far north, our craft was frozen fast by th' ice. Long days passed with all on board waitin' for th' ice to melt.

One mornin' I took my gun and started off over th' ice on a hunt for a polar bear, for fresh meat. I hadn't gone far when I found tracks, and big ones, too. With my gun ready I followed them, thinkin' how good fresh bear steaks would taste. Just as I was goin' around a mound of snow, I almost bumped into two whoppin' big bears.

Well a'r, I was so surprised I forgot I had a gun. Before I could get my senses one of th' bears grabbed me with his big paw and hugged me so hard I thought my ribs would crack. Then th' other bear took my gun and looked it over like he understood it.

While I was wonderin' what was goin' to happen to me two more bears came along to join th' fun. One of 'em, a little cub, put my fur cap on his head, took th' gun from th' other bear, which must have been its mother, swung th' gun over his shoulder and paraded around like a kid playin' war.

Th' bear that had me in his paws must have figured that he had squeezed me enough for he dumped me in the snow. Then th' dad-busted little bear halted right in front of me and started foolin' with th' gun. I was scared stiff, expectin' th' gun to go off any minute. And then it happened.

Well a'r, as scared as I was, I had to laugh. Th' sound of th' explosion scared th' whole bunch and away they went over th' ice.

BRING US A BEAR-STEAK, BILL!

BY GRAVY, BEAR-TRACKS!

MOST LIKELY I'LL HAVE TO GET SOME O' TH' CREW TO HELP ME DRAG HIM IN!
